

When are you free?

Situation: Jen is walking in Downtown Honolulu on her way to Starbucks and runs into an old acquaintance, Stacy.

Stacy: Hey, Jen! Is that you?

Jen: Hi Stacy! I haven't seen you in so long!

Stacy: It's been a while! Are you grabbing coffee?

Jen: Yeah, I must have my Starbucks in the morning.

Stacy: I'll join you. So, how have you been? How's your husband?

Jen: We're good, he just started a new job and I'm still doing wedding planning. What have you been up to?

Stacy: I'm working at Pacific Marketing Agency just around the corner.

Jen: Really? I work in the building next to yours! What a coincidence!

Stacy: Let's grab lunch sometime! When are you free?

Jen: Either Thursday or Friday. My lunch break is from 12.

Stacy: Perfect, mine is too. How is Thursday?

Jen: Thursday is fine. Where do you want go?

Stacy: How about Sunshine Café on South Street? They make the best tuna melt sandwiches!

Jen: Sounds good! Ok, so lunch on Thursday, at 12, at Sunshine Café.

Stacy: Great! Oh, my cell's ringing. It's my boyfriend. Do you remember Derek? We're dating now!

Jen: Wait, wasn't he dating Courtney?

Stacy: Yeah, but they broke up a long time ago! You didn't know?

Jen: But I just saw them together a few weeks ago....

Stacy: Well, gotta run! See you on Thursday!

友達付き合いでの色々な計画をたててみよう。会話を書かず、必要な用語だけ準備してください。

Group 1 Inviter You want to ask the new mother at school to lunch with the other mothers.	Group 1 Invitee Your child just started Elementary School and you want to become friends with the other moms
Group 2 Inviter You want to ask the new employee to go to a bar with everyone.	Group 2 Invitee You're a new employee at work and want to get to know your coworkers.
Group 3 Inviter You ask your new friend (Invitee) to dinner.	Group 3 Invitee You ask your new friend (Invitee) to dinner.
Group 4 Inviter You ask the Invitee to grab coffee after the Book Club meeting.	Group 4 Invitee You want to make friends at your Book Club meeting.
Group 5 Inviter You want to ask the Invitee to a business dinner. You think the Invitee doesn't trust you, so you want to take the Invitee to dinner to build a relationship.	Group 5 Invitee You are an important client to the Inviter. You understand that you can help the Inviter's business greatly, but you don't trust the Inviter yet.
Group 6 Inviter You want to invite your future mother/father-in-law to brunch with your fiance. You want to make a good impression to the Invitee since you will marry the Invitee's son.	Group 6 Invitee You are the future mother/father-in-law to the Inviter. The Inviter will marry your son in a few months. You just met the Inviter and you're still shocked the Inviter will marry your son soon.